Bradley Manning is the young US military intelligence analyst with Welsh roots who has been held in the US without trial for nearly two years, tortured and persecuted as a whistleblower. He is accused of leaking classified and other suppressed material to WikiLeaks and could face life without parole or even the death penalty if convicted at court martial - for revealing the truth about US wars and war crimes.

This is one of a series of events being organised around Wales in April. To find out more, visit wiseupforbradleymanning.wordpress.com or email wiseupforbm@yahoo.com.

Tim Price's play The Radicalisation of Bradley Manning is touring Wales and will be in Flintshire 25-28 April. Details and booking information: nationaltheatrewales.org.
