Delivered to Julian Assange as he seeks asylum at the Ecuador Embassy in London

Dear Julian,

I know you have the strength and will to endure this leg of what I can only describe as remarkable.

Like Mandela's long walk to freedom. I hope you won't have to wait 27 years however during the apartheid era there was no Internet then. Now good people across the globe are at work, planning, organising, informing and joining together. It's your strength and will that inspires me to fight the injustice on your behalf while you stay within the Ecuadorian Embassy.

You show no fear or u-turn in changing the world forever even when the whole world is on your shoulders. You are not alone in that Embassy. I am with you every step of the way. So many are with you. Your courage is astounding.

I'm not going to pray for you...I am going to act.

I'm not going to become angry at those who continue to lie about secret grand dury's...I'm going to persist in fighting with you.

Stay strong you've come this far Sir! In a blink of an eye we shall have you out there.

Thinking of you mate. You are a true Ozzie battler with a determination unlike any other that has graced this earth.

~ an admirer of yours ~

Mr. Assange, we need you free and kicking to continue your work asap!

Dear Julian,

I think of you and your struggle often. I hope firstly that Sweden takes the sensible decision to see you at the Embassy. Failing that we hope you are granted asylum by Ecuador, these people seem to be good and have your safety as a priority and realise that you need protection from the evils of the US judicial and penal system in order that you may be free to continue your good work.

I wish you all the very best, stay strong and keep safe

Julia O'Dwyer (mother of Richard O'Dwyer)

Dear Julian, You have changed the world, inspired others in positive ways and done much to help the cause of justice. Your work will always go on and your legacy is a powerful one. The world is a better place having known Julian Assange. Your friend, Rose Hayes

Julian we hope your well under the circumstances.

We're right behind you every step of the way.

Stay strong friend.

The support for you is astounding. The US/UK/Aus/Swedish Govt's only have the staying power of a bully. We, your loyal supporters, good men and woman will never give up.

It's the least we can do for making our societies a fairer place to live.

So much to say...

Keep well!
Stay strong!

We're working as hard as we can to get you out of there.

Best

Everyone @ ScoFoWL

Our Dear Julian,

You have inspired so many of us, people from all over the world, to be better people. Your slogan, "Courage Is Contagious", has really struck us, but in a beautiful way. Now, people all over the world, including myself (at your service), want to follow your courage. Here, in Mexico, people support you and believe in you. Ecuador has already opened its embassy's doors to you, and I think more positive things will come from Ecuador in the days to come. You have a lot of support in the United States as well.

Please don't change! We want to see you, and hear you, say many more times, "I like to crush bastards."

The efforts of you and those who have contributed to WikiLeaks directly or indirectly have really paid off, and we're just beginning.

I send you a warm hug all the way from Mexico.

Julian,

You're a true inspiration for all of us and a true hero. We wish you can keep your strength to continue in this struggle.

My Father told me, if you stand up against those in power be prepared to be shot down. I and my family stand with you Julian!

Hey Julian,

I'm writing you since Berlin just to tell you that you've been a big inspiration to my generation! You brought hope to the world. I believe in positive thinking, even though it's difficult sometimes. I also believe that people will see and be able to accept the truth concerning the mephitic world we are living in. Maybe it all comes faster than we think, maybe by the end of this year. Hopefully! So i just want to say "Halt die Ohren steif, Julian. Nach dem Regen scheint Sonne" and never give up - There is too many people standing behind you! They want you too feel alone & insecure. But there is nothing they can do about the revolution in our minds, that you helped to desenvolve. Wish you all the best, a lot of sun in your heart and freedom in your soul!

Aloha,
Adrielle

Dear Julian,
do never allow them to take your hopes and dreams away.
The world is a better place because of your work.
You can't give up!
Kind Regards!

Julian,
Faith is the key to all things. You'll get through.
I'm so sorry my country - Sweden - is in on this.
Lots of love and support.
Suzanne

Dear Julian,
I don't think many people in the world comprehend the immense sacrifices you are making to make the world a better place. Your work exposes all the world's wrongs to the court of public opinion.
Keep up the good work and keep the faith.
Sincerely,

Dear Julian,
We know it is hard...
We know it is tough...
But we all very well know it is all worth doing what you do...
We all are backing you up with our sincere prayers and wishes to get you back...
I just hope to see you out in the open very soon and fighting the rodents of the society once again...
JUST HOLD YOUR GROUND, JULIAN...
Thanks

Julian, you are one of my only living heroes. Sites like Wikileaks and people like you give me hope for the future. Sharing the content on sites like wikileaks and just putting the truth out there about just how corrupt politicians and corporations worldwide really are changes minds, changes hearts, and helps people to realize the truth behind things. And accordingly they vote differently, support different corporations and make necessary changes in their decision making processes to make this world a better place. Thanks you for wikileaks, thank you for standing up against corruption, thank you for what you've done for the world. From southern California, with love, Tommy.

I support everything you and the whole world supports you! Dont give up!!

Hi Julian

This is the second year I have nominated you as Australian of the year. You have woken so many to the criminal processes taking place in real time as we watch in disbelief the blatant arrogance of governments that do not follow their own laws.

It's anything can happen time.

I actively will your freedom.

Everyday.

Warmest Greetings

Through your foresight, courage, and determination you inspire generations to fight for more equitable, transparent and accountable governments. My full support in action and words is yours in the hope that can keep shining the light of true democracy into the dark, dead corners of dishonest institutions.

Hello Julian,

You are a true inspiration to me and many others I know, I am an artist and global citizen. You will be remembered throughout time in the hearts of all those who value the ideals of truth and freedom.

It is understood there are many manipulators of the truth, those specifically employed to discount people like yourself and keep the human sheep stuck in their boxes, not encouraged to speak the truth or think for themselves. But now is the time to step out of those boxes - there has never been a better time! The only way we can save this beautiful planet is by empowering ourselves with truth, awareness and action.

Thank you for all you do. You are a great man. I wish you all the best on your journey, you are never alone.

The shift has begun, people are starting to wake up, thanks to people like you.

Love,

Melinda

Dear Julian,

It may be unbelievably difficult during this trying time, and though my words of comfort may not be as comfortable as needed, I would like you to know, that the educated and free peoples of this world truly, appreciate what you are doing and the risks you have taken so that truth may be available to all those who seek it. I think you are wise to avoid going to Sweden as the United States government will undoubtedly try to extradite you to the US for what they unfairly and incorrectly consider "treason". I think you should stay in the Ecuadorian Embassy and try to work it out to a country where your safety will be guaranteed, and I honestly do think that is possible. I think the USA will NOT be able to get you, and I DO think everything will be OK. You may not believe in a Greater being, and though my belief in a Higher Deity also contains a clause where this Deity does NOT interfere in the Universe and its workings, I DO believe the Universe does work out in a way where the good are rewarded and the evil punished. I will continue to throw good wishes, prayers and good thoughts your way and we hopeful yet vocal minority of educated and openminded Americans of European Ancestry wish you stay in Europe unharmed, continue to champion for good, justice and truth, and the USA faces the music for what crap it has pulled and continues to pull. God Bless you Julian and all those you love.

You are a good man, a brave man, and a humble man. GOD BLESS YOU & THANK YOU FOR YOUR SACRIFICE AND BRAVERY.
YOUR APPRECIATIVE AND LOYAL FRIEND,

DR. ARTIN "ART" OHANIAN

Dear Julian,

I'm another journalist, from Brazil, and it's a huge honour to have the chance of writing to you. I'd like to express my full, unconditional support for your incredible bravery and courage.

Thank you for the wealth of knowledge and information we are able to get through Wikileaks. You're the Time's Man of the Year, boycotted by Time - which is a sign they have finally found a Man of the year worth the name and ARE SCARED TO HELL (laughs...) It's a typical sign of pioneers too. The olympic slogan "Inspire a generation" only reminds me 2 persons: you and Bradley Manning. I've also been following your interview program and it's just the greatest.

I laugh over the thick layer of lies published about you. It's a comedy show. The liars, the corrupt governments and journalists paid for by banks and the wealthy were hit hard... And that's exactly why I had left journalism: I was fed up with lies, vanity and corruption in the newsrooms. They were just too close to government and the rich because, at that time, there was no other way to get the news!

Now we don't need them anymore... and they don't seem to get it... There's internet, Wikileaks, bloggers, hacktivists. We're in paradise, but the heroes of this revolution are in hell. So now yes, I wanna be a journalist again to join the ranks. Now it's fun. Now it is finally CONTROVERSIAL, challenging, fresh. Because now IT FUCKING HURTS!! You made it rock AGAIN!! I've been donating whatever I can, and would support you in person if I could.

Don't stop! No surrender!!
Cheers

Dear Julian,

As a free woman inspired by your work, determination and positive influence on our society, I can only have admiration for your courage. Please know that you are an inspiration to our generation and to seekers of justice and freedom worldwide. Your work and example have woken people out of inertia and given them the inspiration and clarity of information needed to change the corrupt, unacceptable global status quo. This movement will not go back to sleep, and will do what it takes to help you regain your own freedom.

Please stay strong in spirit and healthy, supported by the knowledge that the world is waiting for you to return to freedom. That message of liberty reclaimed in the face of such adversity will be tremendous! Our thoughts and resolve are with you.

Many blessings,
Gabrielle

Dear Julian,

Thank you.

I am a refugee from a developing country, now living in one of the wealthiest countries in the world. This makes me a person who has experienced first-hand the differences between being poor and being rich, living in an unsafe environment and living in a safe one, having hope and faith in your future and having absolutely none.

Knowing this difference between surviving and living and the mechanisms that are behind it has often paralyzed me with the feeling of powerlessness and a lack of belief in a better future for human kind.

Knowing that you are well in a safer place while many of your relatives are still fighting to survive every day is an incredible burden to bear, and having no visible way to change this situation is overwhelmingly frustrating.

I am not alone in experiencing this. There are thousands of us.

This is why you are so important. It is not only the work you do, but your attitude and persistence that gives me hope. You and WikiLeaks have successfully managed to poke at the very core of where all the crap in the world comes from. You have managed to piss off those who piss on others every day and the fact that they use such unconventional means to try to silence you only proves how essential a figure you are.

I have never felt so optimistic or inspired. Even if WikiLeaks for some reason was destroyed today, it has already achieved one of the most important things: showing everyday little people like me that there ARE others who understand what is going on. There ARE others who want to change things and that we are many, we are passionate and we are prepared. There are millions of us.

What we need now is direction. We need to know how to help in very concrete ways. Not all of us are cypherpunks, not all of us are able to get direct information. We are being blinded and fooled and confused every day because of this gigantic machine that works to keep us that way and we cannot avoid it. We are artists, plumbers and doctors. We are distracted and unable to apply our work in a helpful manner and we lose our motivation. Give us a way to actively support your work and you will have the largest assembly of motivated minds in the world.

Please continue and good luck!

Hello Mr. Assange,

You don't know me and I don't know you personally, so it feels kind of weird writing to you. My english is far from perfect, but I assume you can endure it like you endured so many things so many times. But now to the point...

I guess every form of society (monarchy, democracy,...) consists of different stages. First comes the stage of ideals, then the stage of exploitation and then the stage of transition to a new form of society. I believe that we live in the exploitation-phase of a capitalistic democracy full of moral relativism.

And then there is YOU, mister Assange. In my opinion you are the man who could have opened us the way into the transition (if they'd let you), to get rid of the foul and rotten swamp full of leeches that we call economic system. We now live in a world consisting of a few rich people and many poor ones, the words "value" and "price" are synonyms for each other. In a world so far away from reality you taught me that a difference is possible! You taught me that my idealistic views aren't just plain theory. It is still a far way to go, and I don't think any of us will see the outcome of a movement that was always there, but needed to be woken up by you. As every system, our money-junkie-system will try everything to conserve itself, so that the winners can remain winners. I guess you can feel that very strong right now. I wish you the strength to carry on doing what you do and what many people are too afraid of. You are the voice of the weak, fearful and suppressed, but most of all you are the voice of the fed up people!

Please, mister Assange, please, Julian, don't forget your anger. A passionate movement needs a certain amount of anger, and passion is the only thing that you can have more of than your enemies.

I may not even be 25, and my words seem unpolished, my beliefs and ideals aren't very mature, even my statements are maybe too careless, but my anger is pure and will help me evolve my thoughts and actions with reason.

I wish you all the best for your future. I'd like to thank you for your very inspiring fight. I am also VERY thankful for the opportunity to write to you. I will remember you, even if whole countries try to erase you from history, or at least not letting you take an active part in it. I will remember you as the rebel in every single one of us. Only that you had the balls to stand up! And, if you once decide to actually read this text, and maybe even respond to it, you'd make me a very happy man.
Best wishes, and again, thank you, Julian

Dear Mr Assange - Your inner strength, integrity, and grace have been an inspiration. Please know that you have tremendous support as you continue your good work. It is time for Sweden to act honorably and clear your name and for the USA to end this vendetta against you. Be well.
An American supporter in NYC

Dear Julian,
What you have made and what you're going through, you're a hero for me and i appreciate your strength. This fight is a fight for freedom, you're not alone in this cause because around the world you have so many people who know that mass manipulation is trying to put you in jail for something you have made and we can call as Freedom of Speech. I have been aware of Wikileaks since the very beginning and since the moment that you were arrested, i was sure that Americans wanted to put an end to this, because when you put them in doubt and tried to take down the "system" (something they don't like), they respond as being what they really are, what defines them, controlling the world and specially the information and knowlegde that we can get from Internet, and in this case from Wikileaks and from you. I'm with you in this fight, not with the guys who with lies and manipulation are trying to control what it's not controllable. Internet means freedom, that's for sure.
I'm with you mate, thinking about your fighting! Stay strong, and your determination is something that we need to look as an example. Thank you and keep up your fighting, because it's not just yours, it's our fight and our future as humanity.

Dear Julian,

Thank you for proving to us how much power one single man can have. I see in your loss, and we most certainly can speak of it as a victory of the mind, that there's prove for the unbelievable sick way the world is ruled. The day you got prosecuted is the day in history which made clear that there is no freedom available on this planet.

It's clear to me now that the only meaningful in life is fighting.

Everybody is struggling but only a few are fighting.

Thanks for dedicating yourself to the greater good.

Every letter you receive is personal and written with care I hope you gain strength out of it, since history tells us, men of your kind are getting lonely even with the support of hundreds.

Hope you can somehow somewhere enjoy your life.

Dear Julian,

IOU: one revolution. I'm working on paying you back

Dear Julian,

You are my only idol that I have had in my life and it is so easy to see why. Please, don't give in. Keep fighting; you're sure to win, and should you fall on hard times, there will be many willing to help fight for you. You are one truly amazing man and I wish you the absolute best.

A true supporter, Reiss.

Hi Julian,

I really hope you get to read all the messages from people across the globe who support you. I am sat here tonight in my house in South Australia, 500kms each way to a major city, yet you are always in our thoughts. As far as I can see you haven't done anything wrong, and the trumped up charges against you are an embarrassment to anyone with half a brain. I am sorry that you and your family have to endure this. There is nothing I can do to take away the pain you and your family are no doubt going through. Please know that people believe in you, and the truth you stand for. You really are a hero for this century.

With love, respect and much admiration.

The Kerrs

Julian--

Wow. So hard to put into words all the things I would like to tell you. You have been an inspiration to me and have woken me up from a heavy sleep. Seems we need to nudge the other sleepers just a bit harder. Your courage has given me a purpose that I would give my life for. I have made that decision knowing the consequences of the actions we may have to take to change things. I'm certain you made that decision long ago.

Let's hope we can change things before it get to that point. That's my goal.

I say this in all seriousness, I would still follow you if you weren't so beautiful. :)

It's your smarts and your conviction that actually wins my heart.

I've read enough to know that we've had some similar struggles, although mine have not been on the scale as yours. I feel though, that I can relate to you as a person.

And just in case you need a g/f when you get to Ecuador, ring me... Have passport, will travel!

laurapcd1

Dear Julian,

I hope from your rooms at the Ecuadorian Embassy that you can see the group of wonderful supporters standing outside, holding a vigil in support of you and your important work. Know that for every one of those able to get to London there are thousands of others standing in solidarity with you in the UK, refusing to ignore the movement you have started and which cannot be reversed.

Whenever I can I talk, write and think about the work you do and the impact it has; I send out postcards with facts about WikiLeaks to random addresses; I write to my MP knowing I will get a thoughtless reply. These are small things, these are important things.

There will be more to come, thank you for this.

A

Thank you Julian

My eyes have been opened - not just by the leaks - but by the amount of difference people with a cause can make against those in power who have become corrupt.

The slander of yourself reveals the desperation these people go to hide their own actions - it disgusts me to see masses lap up terms like cyber terrorist and rapist and the ease at which an entire force for good can be discredited.

You are an inspiration to anyone who chooses to look a little deeper than the headlines...

It must be hard to keep going when discredited so much with the addition of the slow endurance of house arrest - but you mean a lot to a lot of people who see through the lies of those in power and give a face to those willing to question what is wrong but hidden or sold as right

Good luck and keep going...

Cheers

Josh

Dear Julian,

I read WL news and follow your twitter feed daily. For the past 2 years WL has been in my thoughts every single day! You rock!! And you are a rock!! Even my mother who is usually moderate says that you are a hero and that it's obvious everything is a set up.. You are winning, please hang in there!

Well, I am writing today because I read Christine's article and I imagined if I was in your situation I would be climbing the walls too.. I wanted to give you a couple ideas, maybe silly, but .. you never know... One is to get one of those SAD lamps to compensate for the lack of sunlight. Two is to download an mp3 of nature sounds and listen to it with headphones. I used to do that and it worked. I listened to the sound of a river in the mountains with crickets and frogs. The sound of the water was so deep that I started even breathing better and feeling a sensation of freshness and ease. Suddenly I was smiling because I felt as if I was there , ... it was only an app but it helped.

Big hug from a fellow human being fighting for a better life.

Don't loose hope !

xo

Best wishes to you Julian. Looking forward to seeing things work out for you.

Many thanks to WikiLeaks for playing an important role in bringing about news across the globe.

Btw, I found the tv show and the format of "The World Tomorrow" to be very interesting and would very much like to see more of it.

Mr Assange,

You, your team and Ecuador are amazingly brave and social people.

I wished there were more of You.

This is one of the rare times, I wish I would be a millionaire, so I could support you more!

Please keep strong and keep fighting. Wish you all the best.

Dear mr. Assange,

Your work is inspiring for so many people around the world. Including me. Please keep up the spirit and the good work. Never stop doing what you're doing, saying what you think and feel about the world and what needs to be done. Because those who matter don't mind and those who mind don't matter. We are with you all the way. I'm sure I speak not only for myself but for many, many people.

I was first impressed by your work (and your teams work of cause) with the Trafigura leaks. So, that was way before the hype. Since then, nobody managed to make me change my mind about you and Wikileaks, although they tried very, very hard, the David Leighs and Hilary Clintons of this world. I saw your interesting conversations on RT with some great people. Jacob, mr Marzouki, Mr Correa, mr Ibrahim, mr Khan and others. Those talks made me even more sure that you are a good person with clear views on what to do in this world, and that with some effort we can still shift certain situations going terribly wrong.

All my support for you in these difficult times and for the whole team around you.

Best regards,
Marleen Daeleman

Hi Julian,

Please be heartened, and encouraged by the fact, that what you have given to us (Humankind), is the ability to exercise the greatest of all gifts, "Freedom of Choice", by exposing the truth. I

It is therefore very unfortunate, that a man seeking to empower mankind by giving them the truth, has been put of trial, not for a genuine crime, but for the crime of upholding the primary virtue described in every democratical system, of truth and justice for all.

You are being asked to pay the price, for a crime not being laid out before your peers, which is indeed a crime against society.

What you represent, is the hope of a transparent, caring, compassionate world, and i hope that your actions are vindicated, and the society very soon wakes up. This, is really, a trial of whether we should know the truth or not, and whether we are entitled to the rights you have made us aware of.

You are a very brave and courageous man, and i hope that soon everyone awoken to that fact.

Thank you Julian.

Warmest Regards,
Phil

Thanks to Wikileaks, Julian Assange and Brad Manning for my freedom.

Julian,

If it would have been possible I would have sent you a ray of sunshine to the Ecuadorian emabssy in London to shine on you. Since that is not realistic, with my words I just want to send you my thanks and a few words of encouragement.

Thank you; with your work and your dedication you have opened my eyes and showed me what is really important in life and made me believe that one human being can actually make a difference!

For encouragement I want to tell you that you have really had a great impact on this world. I am certain that one day you will be a free man , not only physically but also within and this will make your light shine even brighter and show even more people how brilliant and brave you are.

Love and support.

Til the bitter end!

Dear Julian

I am ashamed to hold both English and Australian citizenship after witnessing the disgusting way both countries have treated you. Julia Gillard does not support her citizens but instead like most of the world is a yes person to the US and any other country when it suits the agenda.

Freedom of speech is almost a thing of the past and I can't begin to express my gratitude that you have the guts to do what you do.

I hope and pray that the Ecuadorian Embassy continue to keep you safe and I thank you and them from the bottom of my heart.

Dearest Julian,

"Great spirits have always encountered violent opposition from mediocre minds."

Albert Einstein

Before I happened upon IQ.org I was essentially blind to the world. That day changed my life. I had thought that minds like that were things of the past-of the greats like Aristotle and Horace -among others. I was proven wrong, and I am glad. I had hope that world we would leave our grandchildren would be better than the one we had been given.

"Men in their prime, if they have convictions are tasked to act on them."

I assume you recognize the author of that one.

I thank you for your courage. I am deeply ashamed of the way the world has treated you, and I assure you that the people do not all feel that way, there is over-whelming support and love for you and your work all over. Its inspiring to see. You may feel like a man without a country, but you are a man who has the world. You have a home in the people, you belong to us and we will stand by you. I hope that this brings you comfort in these hard times. You are not alone.

Most of all I want to thank you for having the strength and conviction to find truth, to look at it unflinchingly and have the courage to share it. A man such as you only comes along once in a great while. Stay strong and know that the world is a better place because of you and your work.

splendide mendax

Dear Julian,

I don't know where to begin to thank you for all that you do and represent in so many ways.

Ever since I was a child I struggled in my family who did not understand the importance of following my dreams, they just wanted me to become a 'proper citizen', following what was forced down everyone's throat as normality.

As I was growing up I had to confront so many disillusioned people who not only don't understand why I take on so many causes (even if just in my little ways), but who also do their best to discourage me or ridicule me because 'no matter what I do I will not win'. I still get that a lot today.

But I have never given up thanks to the role models who constantly remind me of my power as an individual. I really look up to many who have changed history. You are one such person, in fact in this day ad time you are one such person on a global level. You would be welcomed in my home anytime should you need to find refuge. Your words of hope, the dinner for free speech, even after this long unfinished trial that you are suffering, have given me a new wave of energy and passion.

If anyone can change things for good, you can. You have incredible strength and courage, and I know that so many people including myself have great admiration for you.

I also keep reminding people of Bradley Manning so by sharing your and his posts I hope to avoid your situations being brushed under the carpet as the government would hope. Perhaps I can ask others to join my effort. Perhaps we can email the embassy for a more direct approach? I also would like to know from you how I can support you right now. I owe you too much to let you go down. Not now, not ever.

Keep your head high, we are with you all the way because you are our great leader :-)

Lots of love and happy smiles,

Francesca xxx

Dear Julian,

Thank you for helping to bring democracy to America. I know it came at a great cost to you. I am an American but I am ashamed of the government I live under. America is no longer a democracy, if it ever was one. We get very little real news here and until the information you provided came to us and provided us with the truth we were as in the dark as the rest of the world. I and many people I know are working to bring about a safer, more equitable world.

I do not know exactly what Sweden wants to charge you with but I am willing to bet that your supposed infractions are far less than say, Clinton as president, or than many other members of the U.S. government. Many of us are aware that, if extradited, Sweden will give you up to the U.S. rogue government without a qualm. I hope and pray that Ecuador will give you asylum until the American people wake up.

You are a hero in the classical meaning of the world. You have brought light and hope to the world. I am sorry that your gift has come at such a great cost to you. I am praying that you will have many, many better days in the near future.

Sincerely,
Thelma Follett

Dear Julian,

I truly admire what you and Wikileaks have done for the benefit of mankind. Thank you for lifting the curtain of disguise and revealing the truth. The so-called free press respectively investigative journalism has been tremendously constrained by government after 9/11 failing to perform its obligation and too often leading to self-censorship but you and your organization have proven us otherwise. Your very own words in the interview with Steve Kroft from CBS regarding free press activism were:

„It's not about saving the whales, it's about giving people the right information they need to support whaling or not support whaling. Why? It is the raw ingredient that is needed to make adjustments in society and without that we are just sailing around in the dark...“

And indeed you have helped make crucial adjustments in this world; the first of which was to make us alert to(governmental) abuse of power and to raise our awareness of the deterioration of democracy in the western world(and that was the most important to me and I believe it did have vast repercussions on the Occupy movement, too). You have liberated many from their ignorance in the dark cave. The revelation of the information by WikiLeaks are of very high value for humanity and they did, you did, alter the course of history. It first became most striking in Tunisia and yet this wave of uproar will not cease to bring other changes as well.

If it were not for people like Bradley Manning or like you who acted in an utterly altruistic manner, selflessly and courageously we would not be here today. You have helped promoting human rights and democracy by being a fierce fighter for the freedom of speech..our freedom and basic democratic rights depend on it. So yeah, I think you acutally deserve the Nobel Peace price for the contribution you have made to the world.

Thank you for showing us that we as individuals can bring change to society, that we are don't have to watch helplessly and yield to the fradulent manipulation by governements and authorities...even if this means that we have to face a massive struggle and even if those holding the whip hand deprive us of our basic democratic rights which in your case is painfully obvious: Democratic states who destruct their own values and ideals by trying to censor investigative journalism and by prosecuting a journalist or taking part in this campaign just to hide their dirty secrets... ?

You are an inspiration to many people in the world including me because you have given me hope; hope to shape the society I live in and hope of a better world.

You shall be a free man before long. I support you and I know there is incredible support for you and what you stand for. It may be true that you have been isolated from the outside world and therefore it may seem that you are alone...but that is not at all true because you are one of us; if you are not free than neither are we.

My heart goes out to you every single day.

May sunshine find you where you are and beam sweet laughter in your heart.

Dear Julian & Friends of Wiki Leaks =),

Thanks for doing your part! The parts our Government casually dismiss yet need to be out there. The work MUST get done, thanks for standing up for America and The World, all of our People!

Julian, you are a hero in my eyes. Like Shawn from Napster, you've started something our society must reactively now work on, but at least we HAVE something now!!!

I too got dreams of a better world, I wish for daily iVote ap for Govt Decisions....so the world's Citizens can upvote/downvote alongside it's decisions. :D

<http://www.facebook.com/Daily.iVote.Ap>

So you see? You've inspired a LOT of people, myself included. I run this one page but there are dozens of us reposting cool news on Facebook, where I ran into your friends bringing light a hero's work TODAY along with the troubles WE face together.

I wish I was heavy into coding but I'm just a garbage man. You guys got a slick website going on @ Wiki Leaks.

The best site I saw, so far, for Daily Citizen Voting is www.OnlineParty.ca, voting on issues directly. Surely we can evolve that into a Swarm Force to protect people, as Google is protected. I'd love to see Citizen votes compared against Senators who pretend to represent us. I try to be as awesome as you guys are. I lead Open Source Government in Grepolis Online Gaming battles. 24/7 Risk conquer game, the world over. We do alright while also hoping for a better world, an upgraded one. <http://www.Grepolis4Life.com> shows OSG Territory on our 300 Member Alliance. =)

Here's a quote I've found a few days ago by chance and guess who's face I had in my mind immediately:

"Warriors are not what you think of as warriors. The warrior is not someone who fights, because no one has the right to take another life. The warrior for us is one who sacrifices himself for the good of others. His task is to take care of the elderly, the defenceless, those who cannot provide for themselves, and above all, the children, the future of humanity." (Indian wisdom) ~ Sitting Bull Hunkpapa Lakota

Thank you, Julian, for being such a warrior. Thank you for not giving up, thank you for standing up again everytime they tried to bring you down. In the end I'm not able to express my gratitude in words like this. But I can promise you that all these people standing behind you and I, we won't ever rest until they give you your life back.

You are a true warrior, probably one of the last ones. But don't ever forget, that an army is raising behind you, to follow and to protect you and to help you when you're in need. You won't ever be alone. No matter where you are or will be in the world. We will always be by your side. The officials of the governments don't speak our mind. We love you for what you gave us and what decision ever you'll make in the future, we'll stay behind you with everything we are. And we are many...

The time will come soon, when you are able to travel freely again. And I'm waiting for the day when the governments will apologize publicly for what they've done to you.

Until that day, I'll be fighting for your rights, as I'll be fighting for mine.

I'm looking forward to meet you on the battle field, Warrior.

All the best for you,

Melanie (yeah it's me again... I know ;-)

Dear Julian,

President Correa said : "Assange is the world emblem of Free Speech" That's what many many people around the world, my husband and I, think. We just signed Avaaz petition for you, and forwarded it to our friends. Some time ago, we wrote an e-mail to Rafael Correa to ask asylum for you. The same thing did a lot of friends of ours.

These ones are not so great things, but "many drops make the sea".
Your fans will never abandon you, don't worry about this!

Long live and prosper
Ercolina

Dear Julian,

You have become a close friend to me even though I'll never meet you.
I had been waiting for over 40 years for someone like you to stand up and speak the truth.

Thank you for your courage.

"Few men are willing to brave the disapproval of their fellows, the censure of their colleagues, the wrath of society. Moral courage is a rarer commodity than bravery in battle or great intelligence.

Yet it is the one essential, vital quality of those who seek to change a world which yields most painfully to change." Ernest Hemingway

There are millions of us behind you.

Peace,

Jacqueline Vidal-Atherly

Dear Julian,

We support you and your Organisation.

We thank you. You have courage beyond any words and you have many thousands of supporters who will do what ever it takes to make sure we all stand united.

You represent truth justice and democracy in a world full of greed, consumerism and NO empathy towards ones fellow man.

Another person whom I thank also, is your mum. A lovely dedicated woman, working tirelessly to do her bit to protect you and your reputation. She is constantly pulling up Mainstream media and correcting the lies, smears and innuendos. A woman that deserves mother of the year. A woman that must be under so much stress and pressure yet battles on and works at the coal face doing her utmost to be active and doing her bit to reveal the truth.

I could not be anymore proud to know you are my fellow Australians and i have been doing my bit even as small as it may be to support you and spread the truth also.

I also thank the Ecuador embassy and the President and Ecuadorian people for their strength and care/love and support - a humane country with decent ethics.

Keep strong and remember truth will always prevail.

Love and Best wishes,

Colleen 3~'

Julian,

Despite the self-serving hypocrisy of the power elites there are millions of people around the world who understand and support your cause. History is the story of the struggle of ordinary people for control over their own lives in the face of a power class that wants to shape the world for their own profit and comfort regardless of the cost to the "little people". This class has always sought to control and limit information as means of wielding and maintaining power. Your brave role in breaking some of that control is a glorious shot in the long battle for mastery over our own destinies. You are fighting the good fight and the weight of history is on your side. We have come some way since the divine rule of kings, but there is still a long way to go before we are truly free and empowered citizens. Your work moves us closer to that goal - the world can never be quite the same after WikiLeaks.

An oldie (but a goodie)

Julian, we love you, you have changed the world! Rose in PA

Dear julian,

Thank you for your commitment to our freedom - hope you get yours.

Dearest Julian,
You have changed the world and many lives within it. I know you are going through quite a lot right now; but this is because the great are often burdened with great travails. I have absolutely no doubt that an unseen hand will protect you from serious harm.
Please maintain the strength, faith, and courage that you have shown us all throughout your life. I'm quite certain that help will soon arrive.
With you in spirit always,
GM

Dear Julian, my best wishes be happy, be free, stay in safety and continue yours excellent works - so important for freedom, transparency and democracy development. I hope the next part of The World Tomorrow will be soon. With best regards, Małgorzata

Julian,

I hope you are staying strong- this is a hard journey you are undertaking. You are and will always be one of the most significant figures of our time; so much you have learnt that we are now learning, so much that you are fighting for that we are now fighting for too.

Now even the smallest task I am faced with will be undertaken with increased determination- your will of conviction is an inspiration. Such is the impact you are having on the world- from the humble one to the global collective.

You are echoing through history already; this must be what immortality feels like.

Dear Julian,

I want you to know many people support what you have done and are doing, our hearts and minds are with you. You are an inspiration to the 99%. Standing up to powerful people, Super Powers, corrupt corporations and banksters ..how can anyone put into words what a courageous thing to do. I believe the world could be a better place..and it already is because you are here on this planet doing what most of us were afraid to.

You have empowered us to see what needs to be done.

If I were a religious person I would say you are on the side of the angels and God Bless You.

Keep strong, keep safe and stay healthy. We all need you.

Respect

Jean Sievers x Cyber hugs

Julian,

I hope you are doing well at the Embassy. I'm sure it must be difficult, especially without the solace of nature. But it will all be worth it, and it's good that you are safe right now, despite how uncomfortable it may be. If you ever get too down, maybe someone can bring you a copy of "Cancer Ward". Even though I am in a good situation, I still get depressed at times, and it's not always easy to remember the positives. But you do have a very strong support base which is constantly fighting for your right to proper justice. Do stay optimistic -- we will not rest until you are safe!

I think it was Mr Garzon who commented that you have been acting properly through all judicial proceedings, yet you have been let down by the law. It's truly admirable for you to continue this way, since you have faced many abuses from multiple legal systems. Hopefully more and more people will begin to see these issues and work towards better justice systems in every country.

Meanwhile, take care of yourself. Work hard, rest when you need to, and hopefully Ecuador will grant you asylum shortly after the Olympics end. I wish I could be out in front of the Embassy supporting you, but it's wonderful to know that Londoners have been out holding daily vigils.

Stay strong and never give up!

xx

m_cetera

Dear Julian,

I'm here outside and want to tell you, that you have reached my heart.

I began to find back my interest about journalists work and its freedom to publish. I think media is very important in forming peoples mind and not only to get information, also to make up peoples mind that get them acting. So it is the most important thing to build a society. Without freedom of journalists work there is no free society possible.

There for I began to take action. And I think, a lot of other people will do the same. So you are not alone!!

I stand for you and will take part to take action. They never will make this idea silence.

Julian, take care about yourself and never lose trust in other people, also this would not ever be simple, it's so important for life.

I don't want you as a hero, I want you to be free to go outside drink coffe and meet people ... or everything else you want to do, without fear, so like everyone else from us, too.

Love, greatings and support from Germany.

Dear Julian,

Thank you. That is really the only thing that needs to be said to you. Thank you for everything that you have done and will continue to do in the future to make this world a better and more transparent place for us all. You are an inspiration to so many of us and if I can make even a fraction of a difference that you have made then I will be happy. As junior at an arts high school in the US and an aspiring journalist, you have greatly influenced me to become involved in FoWL and other like-minded organizations. The cause of government transparency is incredibly important nowadays as my country's presidential administration is becoming more and more opaque. Julian, please stay strong during this fight. You have so many people behind you and ready to support you no matter what happens. I hope that you are in somewhat good spirits and know just how much your well-being means to us. Once again, I can't thank you enough for what you have done for our futures.

With love and appreciation,

Emma Louise

Keep fighting the good fight Julian. We are here for you. big love. X

First, I just want to thank you for taking a moment to read through this. I understand you've quite a bit on your plate and many of these to read so I am very appreciative for this opportunity.

I am so very grateful for everything you have done to make this world a much better place. This doesn't limit itself just to what you did with starting Wikileaks to begin with.

This goes back to your working to achieve fair parental rights, for working with police for the safety of children. You do not hesitate to set things right and you do so with a wonderful conscience and a thoughtfulness beyond what many hope to achieve. When I speak of thoughtfulness it is more than considering others yet this is not abandoned, it is the level and degree of thought placed upon whatever it is you pursue.

I know and fully realize there are those amongst us who work as equally to achieve things just as noble as what you've done and continue to. If I had the ability to air my appreciation for them as well I would do so. This isn't about them however, this is about you.

I can not express just how deeply upset I am for what my government has done to you, to your organization Wikileaks, and in essence to the worlds people. Of course these aren't the only misdeeds against people both nationally and internationally but we both know this and I'd be sidetracking if I went into all of that.

The actions and words of my government which have spoken out against you and Wikileaks is a mortifying embarrassment not just for myself but for what they are supposed to represent which is life, liberty, and justice for all.

Their behaviors fall short of every one of these and to an extensive degree. They do not represent those very things nor do they represent myself in any way, shape, or form. What they have done is made a complete mockery of out of all the nation, the nations people, and of the world alike. They've drawn the line against what is good, right, and true in their own declarations of dismal and disapproval of you and Wikileaks along with those whom support you and your efforts.

What you do, what you stand for and represent are incredible symbols for the potential awaiting what this world truly can be if it so desired. Because of the leaks which are possible due to the many hard working people who share the same ideology of bringing wrongs to light to set these right I no longer have to question whether my not having faith in my leaders is founded. I know those fears are indeed true. And I can see that what they've done isn't only in one facet or another. I get the whole picture.

The mainstream media does not allow for truthful information. Your organization does. I can learn about the atrocities my government or any other entity thinks they can hide from us and I have the ability to speak out against this with valid information to back-up these concerns.

You are an incredible asset to humanity. I long for a time when this world's filled up with people like minded as you who perceive and seek truth, accountability, responsibility, and stewards of humanity and the planet alike including all its various forms of life. Imagine if you will that I am shaking your hand, patting you on the back, and giving you a great big hug. I want you to know I stand with you, for you, behind you, and beside you. For every wrong done to you is one done to me and to all of us. I have the upmost respect for you and all that you do and have done.

I can only imagine what you must be going through and I don't for a moment take what you've done for all people for granted. I was stopped recently by several policeman for simply walking to a nearby store. I'd done absolutely nothing wrong and the only thing I was informed of was that I looked suspicious. This is entirely not true. I wore jeans and a tank top and while I have vivid colored hair it sat under a cap. I was alone and playing with my phone. I never did get any kind of straight answer from them and I was worried the entire time what was going to be.

Yet throughout this I thought of you and how this experience paled in comparison to what you're going through. I thought about what must've been running through your mind the moment you learned an arrest was issued for you and then of sitting in the station answering their questions. I wasn't arrested thankfully and unlike you I can brush aside what took place and move on.

You are not afforded this luxury sadly. I honestly can't fathom how its gone on this long that you are so vehemently pursued by my government and especially without any other government stepping up to protect you and offer assistance, especially from your own country of residence. I can only be hopeful Ecuador allows you refuge and asylum from this insanity which has become the worlds attention and concern.

I am so very sorry more than words and expressions will allow for everything you've undergone and continue to. I apologize for the insidious unconscionable behaviors of my government towards you. I am remorseful for the flagrant disregard for you as a person and the rights you're very much entitled to, the travesty which is your mistreatment, the unrelenting harassment and bullying, the intimidation, the manipulation all for which my government is responsible for against you.

I've no idea how to right all of this, how to demand this to cease, to force my country to rectify of this. I do the best I can to inform whoever I can, to spread your message, to make others aware, and to make the most with what I do have and can do. I wish I had the capacity to do so much more.

My thoughts are with you always and my efforts to right this wrong will not ever be quenched til this is corrected.

You are one of the greats and I will tell you so that you know and my conscience knows that you have heard this that I love you and I do so with all my heart. I do so not as a crazed fanatic, I'm not for fanaticism. I do so as one kindred spirit to another. Whether or not you see it, this place is a heck of a lot better because of you and will continue to improve for the groundwork you have laid.

You are a true inspiration and I will not ever lose sight of everything you are and represent.

There is so much more that I could say or go into but then I'd just feel like I was rambling on so I will simply say I wish you the very best all things considered and my condolences are with you.

Lovingly and Sincerely Yours,
Becca Calvert

Hello, this a the statement of support for Julian from Archaina, Het and Sleven.

We have recently started up a website/organization called angryabouttheworld.org. (it's only just been created, it's a little rough around the edges)

We fully support you in your battle against this global injustice. You have given us the motivation and passion to continue on working towards a better system. You have kick started a revolution that someone should have started a long time ago and for that we follow you and spread your message.

Wherever you are and whatever situation your in, remember that you have hundreds of thousands of people behind you all the way.

Thank you so much for everything you've done and for everything you're doing.

Archaina, Het and Sleven.

Dear Julian,

By opening governments you are opening people's eyes and changing their hearts - the best combination what Earth has ever seen! We need you! Don't give up!

Dear Julian Assange

Firstly, thank you for all you have done for transparency and openness and awakening a generation to what's been going on. Please hold steady no matter what happens, we believe in you and what you are doing no matter what the stinking trolls say. I know you are one to travel and you are a free bird, but while you are at the embassy remember you are free within. Turn inward and use your spirit and imagination for your freedom. Inside we are limitless so don't despair I know it must be hard for you. You have an inner life and access to the world through the web. You can do it, we are with you.

Dear Julian,

I don't want to tell you the importance of your restless work. Everybody knows it! I want to tell you why I believe in you. When I read about your childhood in Magnetic Island and the special way your mother Christine recalled the past, the good time. When I saw the photographic portrait of you as a child with Possum, then I realized that you've had a wonderful life! That curious, lovely, sincere child is still alive inside of you. Don't never give up him! He will give you the strength of mind. Don't give up Magnetic Island!

Sincerely

Julian, be strong.

Hello Julian,

May you stay healthy and able to maintain the courage, determination and the audacity that inspire so many and have me so often in awe. We care about you a whole lot.

Sincere best wishes,

I simply wanted to say that I, personally, stand by you Julian Assange, Wikileaks, and Bradley Manning. The "legal" procedures they are throwing at all three of you are outrageous, unconstitutional, and appalling. I sincerely hope that you, Assange, will find a way to extract yourself from the UK and return to Wikileaks. I hope I don't read the newspaper one day to find you mysteriously dead, because those are the forces we are unfortunately up against as truthseekers, intellectuals, and anti-establishment activists. And regarding Bradley Manning, he is a man carved from rock; unbroken, he has withstood the torture our Marines have carried out in the name of "national security" and "Manning's mental health." You should feel supremely fortunate to have such a solid, immovable supporter.

Julian Assange, Wikileaks, Bradley Manning; I stand by you. In all your endeavors, may the government shudder in your wake.

Lauren Nichols

Hi Julian

A whole bunch of us here on the North Coast are sending big hugs and massive thanks for your bravery in continually exposing the cold hard truths of global politics. Your exploits are legendary and we (amongst thousands of others) love you and support you all the way. Just wish you could come home..

Stay strong. As Ned Kelly once said... "Surrender be buggered". 'A day will come in a bigger court than this when we will see who is right or wrong'.

We support your democratic right to keep on revealing the truth. All power to you.

When Vasco da Gama reached the Indian Ocean in 1492 during a terrible storm he shouted to his desperate ship team: "Go on guys, dont you see, the Ocean is trembling with fear!" -

well hello

suppose u must have time to sit around and read emails from complete strangers so....ahhhh, we'll...if u do read it...or if is deleted by some "volunteer"

what a lot of bad luck you've had with them such a shame.

well...I made some videos once that some people in Tunisia really liked they could n't get into the WL sites...as you recall it was getting DDoS'ed not too dissimilar as recent events and the government in Tunisia had some constraints put on the interbutz for a while...u know so in a small sorta way the videos showed ppl there exactly what the cables were about.

and that the rumours they had heard for years were all true expats were ones also sending translated stuff in as ppl all around the world ,....amazing...no words like most things its lots of little tiny ppl doing stuff that makes the big things happen.

so ...South America will be interesting, needless to say if it doesn't come off...you're not totally without options

I'm sure the Spanish guy has told u pretty sure it works out

anyhow...u enjoy the Olympics and we'll see u soon

Life is filled with crossroads, I always personally suspected the corruption and straight up evil your foundation exposed, people used to think I was crazy, conspiracy ect, My dad and I used to get into fights, talking about stuff, people get comfortable not knowing things, they squeeze thier eyes shut and hope when they open them whatever they were scared of is gone.

My dad finally accepts that our governments quite often are not on the side of the people whom they are supposed to be serving now, I would like to thank you for bringing to light the truth, stay strong keep your head up knowing there are not just millions, but billions of people behind you supporting both yourself and your very worthy cause, the people are waking up one by one, and its starting to snowball, people are talking and coming together and working as a team, and your organization has been a huge part of this, it will probably end in violence as do all of humanities greatest steps forward, but its just blood and lives, we pave the road forward with them thru the ages for our children and future generations to tread on.

You have inspired and awakened a generation, its said the meek shall inherit the earth, we are not that meek, we are good kind people most of us, it gets mistaken for weakness when in fact it is strength, you are not alone, you are never alone so long as the rest of us are here.

The world is watching and listening, they will have to kill us all before they put us back in the dark.

Christopher from Canada

Best regards and respect.

Dear Julian

Well it's now about two and a half years, that not a day has gone by without me thinking about the ramifications of Wikileaks, your courage, intelligence and combative energy and more recently the intelligence courage and humanity of your Mother. Take heart from how many thousands of other peoples lives you have joined like this. Know that you will occupy that place forever. That place is where hope exists. All this, on the strength of your belief in Truth. Words don't suffice to express how amazing that is, but .. you know what I mean.

2 days ago I was at the first ever rally to support you and Brad. M. and W.L. held in Paris. France can be a little bit hermetically sealed, and many French don't feel the need to speak English, so where to start with this story is a challenge, but - we're on the case. There is a strong history of the English language being resisted here, they will not want any proof of that being a disadvantage... so that is the first step, unless someone can immediately translate everything ever written on the topic into French. I met some great people. Clear energetic and focused. It was a huge plus to finally have offline people to talk with about this, and isn't it all about linking very different people from every background into a common humanity guided by decency, kindness, moral accountability all the way to the top and TRUTH. ?

With continuing support I am focused on you enjoying a run in the sun, getting back into shape and renewing your energy to continue on your amazing life path.

with deep respect and love . Lynne in France. p.s. FFS stay safe. Xo

Hi,

The mountain is huge but I think people are realising all over the UK that the USA/corporate power is dangerous and harmful. For some they are realising it intuitively first then having facts confirm it for them. You have made huge sacrifices and you will inspire others. Dear Julian,

The world is proud of you, I am proud of you because you are crazy enough to try to change the world!

And because you are (more than) intelligent enough to see how the system works, and because you are (more than) courageous enough to work against the system, and because you are so enduring to still not give up on yourself and give in to the system...

Things have to change and you sure have made a great big step towards it... You are writing history whether people want to see it or not...

And i love you for that...

Julian Assange promotes truth. We have been taught to seek and respect truth all our lives. Mr. Assange should be supported in every way possible to deter greedy, power hungry elitists from overrunning lives of common people throughout the world. I reside in New York City. Here I have met people from all over the world, interacting both professionally and personally. Ecuadorians, have always been, in my experience, an honest and positive influence in the communities where they live. I applaud the Ecuadorian govt, and people for their support of Mr. Assange and the ideals of truth, and justice.

Julian,

Stay strong resilient and focused Bro because everything you do matters a great deal for the betterment of humanity and our world. You and WikiLeaks are the bright conscious light of journalistic truths, advocacy, energy and innovative new media for all people who believe in equality, community, human rights, justice, transparency and accountability for corrupt governments, greedy politicians and their mad corporate sponsored machinery everywhere. Millions of your supporters love and believe in you Julian, I am so glad to be one of them, my family and I are very proud of you, your work and your team, everyday we make sure people in our community know what corporate state imposed censorship is and the harm it does in the light of the persecution of yourself and WikiLeaks. More and more people are waking up and joining your supporters and the WikiLeaks community. You and your mum are surrounded by much love, light and healing from a much higher advanced spiritual vibration. Thank you again and solidarity Julian.

At times, it may feel like the fight is not worth the effort you have to put forth, or as if the task is insurmountable and ceaseless. Unfortunately, this is because it is so. There are no Utopias, no end to human learning, and the only thing we can do is choose our direction. It is not the goal that becomes reality, but instead, the path we choose to reach that goal. Your path has been so hard to traverse because it's contrary to the paths of a (systematically) competitive society. When you share something as valuable as truth, for free, you become hated by those who desire a monopoly on truth. Truth exposes the flaws of our institutions, and begs needed questions about our interpretations of reality, leading to the loss of power from those that bend institution to serve themselves.

You are smart and self-directed, following only the truth as you find it, questioning especially what has previously been taken as faith by the masses. You are connected to this group, humanity, and when you stray the group follows. Where are you headed, following truth? Into a world many fear to acknowledge, a closer approximation of reality. Not alone, but of your own accord, choosing your steps thoughtfully. You have others by your side, though their light may not be visible to you yet. As time moves on, their light will grow as they, too, discover knowledge/truth/reality. Do not feel that you walk alone in the darkness, but know that you are only at the forefront of humanities surge, which is the only place you ever wanted to be anyway.

While it's fun to watch some of the Olympics on tv, there's not really anything heroic about swimming 5/100ths of a second faster than the next guy (unless you're drowning and that 5/100th is the difference between life and death), sticking a landing in gymnastics, or winning a shooting contest. Oscar Pistorius, and the other runner whose legs were shot, accomplished something extraordinary by participating, which will inspire some people to not give up and to set their goals high. However, there's no way to know whether the people those runners inspire will use that inspiration to do something which will make the world a better place.

Julian Assange has done something to make the world a better place: WikiLeaks means we can be better informed, people who are not politically, militarily or economically powerful have a voice (which they do not have via mainstream/conservative/corporate media), government/military/corporate crimes, corruption and lies can be exposed, and therefore future crimes, corruption and lies may be deterred, sources are protected by complete anonymity which wasn't possible before, and people have a source of hope. All of this accomplished on a non-profit basis. By publishing complete (aka uncensored) source material of ethical, political and historical significance, WikiLeaks is not breaking the law, it is upholding rights contained in the US Constitution, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and other legal instruments around the world. Julian and other members of WikiLeaks could have compromised with powerful institutions and individuals, by only publishing what those institutions and individuals consider acceptable for publication. That would defeat the whole purpose of WikiLeaks' mission, which is Justice Through Transparency.

Ideally all journalists and journalistic organizations would operate as uncompromisingly as Assange and WikiLeaks. Journalists' role, at least in the United States, is supposed to be speaking truth, including and especially about authority. Instead they have become shells for corporations, CEOs, politicians and the military, airing "news" stories which are often produced by PR firms, or collaborated on by military members embedded in news departments or ex-military members who now work for defense contractors. Consolidation of media into fewer and bigger corporations has made the system very hard to penetrate with the truth. WikiLeaks would not be necessary if other journalists and journalistic organizations could and would do their jobs, on behalf of ordinary citizens instead of an extremely powerful minority.

Julian Assange should definitely be granted political asylum by Ecuador. He is in this situation for political/publishing/speech reasons. There is no way he would have a fair trial (possibly no trial at all, per NDAA) in the US. In addition to political asylum he should be physically protected, because sadly his life will probably still be in danger, once he is in Ecuador. Also he and Wikileaks should be allowed to continue to publish without censorship.

Thank you Julian and Wikileaks. Hoping you will have a long life, good health, freedom, the right to publish and speak, and the ability to spend time with family and friends.

The world needs you!

Julian, you are an inspiration to many
The worlds needs you so don't stop fighting for what you and so many others believe in!!!
Stay strong :)

Wikileaks has become our collective conscience, it strives to throw light on deep and dark pockets of our societies. Justice and prosperity no longer arrive through our institutions, and we are reduced to speak in predigested slogans, for complexity has been banished; free and news ideas, pushed to the margins of our world.

As Norman Finkelstein put it: "If you pursue truth and justice, it always means a diminution of power and privilege. If you pursue power and privilege, it will always be at the expense of truth and justice."

But you know Julian: where the lights of Truth and Justice are brought, shadows disappear forever.
One can silence, distort, overshadow Knowledge, but no one can make ignorant he who thus knows.

And we know from now on that what we used to think it was impossible, you did it.

That's why we are never going to give it up.

After knowing Wikileaks, we, my husband and I, thanked for the hope it gave us. In a world so artificial and produced it is very delightful to hear stories like Mr. Assange's. We have two boys, 5 and 1 years old, we like to tell them that real heroes exist, that they do not have superpowers like at the TV, but they work everyday to help as many people as they can, they try to make the world a better place for everyone, like Julian Assange, , John Lennon, Gandhi, Mandela, Che Guevara, Aung San Suu Kyi and many others that we would spend much time writing... We just want to tell him and the world that we think someday Julian Assange will be recognized as a very important person of the History. We also hope he does not die in the hands of injustice and corruption.

Dear Mr. Assange: I sent 1010 Euros to your legal defense fund. I hope you are in receipt of the same. Best regards, Irene L. Kitchin, Moscow, Russian Federation

Keep crushing those bastards mate.
All the best.
